WELCOME TO THE LAB

You open it every day. You should get to choose it.

A door is the one part of your home you touch every single day, and usually the one nobody chose. It came with the house. The Windows Lab exists to change that: to make choosing an interior door as considered as choosing a floor, and getting it installed as easy as it should be.

This catalog gathers our 2026 interior door collection: 45 models in 11 families, from clean shaker panels to frosted glass, walnut and grey oak. Each page shows the door and its drawing, and most include a full size chart. When you find yours, we take it from there.

01

We measure.

We check your openings so every door fits the first time.

02

We deliver.

BEFORE YOU START

How to read this catalog.

Every model has its own page: a photo, a line drawing, a short description and, for most models, a size chart. Here is what the terms mean.

FORMAT

Door only or pre-hung

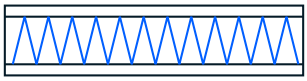

Door only is the door slab by itself, made to hang in the frame you already have. Pre-hung comes mounted in its own frame with hinges, the usual choice for new openings or worn frames.

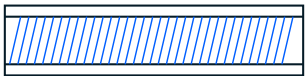

TYPE

Swing or bi-fold

A swing door opens on side hinges. A bi-fold folds in two along a track, which suits closets and tight spaces. The size chart shows which types each model comes in.

HOLLOW CORE

SOLID CORE

CORE

Hollow or solid

Hollow core doors are light and economical. Solid core doors have a composite-wood core under an MDF face: heavier, more substantial, and quieter between rooms.

HARDWARE

Hinge finishes

Pre-hung doors come with hinges in silver, black or gold. Barn doors slide on a black barn-door track system, available as an option.

SIZES

Reading the size chart

Columns are door widths in inches. Rows are the door height and type. A blue dot means that combination is available. Standard height is 80"; selected models also come in 96". Standard thickness is 1-3/8".
